

Share your expertise with the global neuro-rehab community

Neuro Rehab Times, the media platform covering neuro-rehab globally, is eager to hear from WFNR members.

The digital publication aims to share expertise, opinions and ideas from professionals working in all areas of neuro-rehab, across the globe.

If you have a piece of research, news about your work or your organisation or an opinion you'd like to express, Neuro Rehab Times is keen to hear from you.

While the publication cannot pay for written contributions, you will receive global exposure for any submission published – with pieces shared on social media, a weekly e-newsletter and a bi-monthly digital magazine.

You will also receive a heavily discounted digital subscription to enable you to access your article.

Founded in 2016, Neuro Rehab Times aims to enable the sharing of ideas, best practice and new approaches among neuro-rehab service leaders and practitioners; engaging all members of the multidisciplinary team.

Its content informs decisions in all rehab settings including public health, complex care facilities, residential homes, private clinics and in the community.

Visit www.nrtimes.co.uk to find out more and email andrew@aspectpublishing.co.uk if you'd like to contribute.