Rehabilitation Medicine Society of Australia and New Zealand

The Rehabilitation Medicine Society of Australia & New Zealand (RMSANZ) is the professional body for rehabilitation physicians and trainees in Australia and New Zealand and offers a stimulating, supportive and collegial environment of professional development, continuing education, policy review and encouragement of teaching and research.

RMSANZ currently has 470 individual members spread over Australia and New Zealand.

Due to changing covid conditions throughout 2021, RMSANZ unfortunately had to postpone their face to face Annual Scientific Meeting (ASM) and instead held a virtual snapshots meeting over a weekend in August, attracting over 200 delegates, speakers and sponsors.

The ASM is scheduled to be delivered on the Gold Coast in June, 2022.

A musculoskeletal workshop was squeezed in between lockdowns with 15 registrants for that workshop in Melbourne.

A 6 part webinar series was developed by the Private Practice Special Interest Group aiming at educating and making job ready our trainee members, there were over 50 registrants for that online offering.
